About Community Action Teams

Vancouver – Vancouver is one of 18 B.C. communities that are getting a Community Action Team (CAT) and dedicated funding as part of the Province’s escalated response to the overdose crisis.

The Community Action Team will focus on four areas of action to save lives and support people with addictions on a pathway to treatment and recovery:

1. Expanding community-based harm-reduction services.
2. Increasing the availability of naloxone.
3. Addressing the unsafe drug supply through expanded drug-checking services and increasing connections to addiction-treatment medications.
4. Proactively supporting people at risk of overdose by intervening early to provide services like treatment and housing.

Good Luck!
